It is a document which supports the processes of installation, uninstallation, and software upgrades. It provides information on prerequisites, system requirements, and configuration options.

This includes Package Publishing and Licensing

It is a procedure of granting access to a package to the users. By publishing the package, the owner can share the code with customers and make it easier for the customer to integrate and use in their projects. And if there are any security concerns, critical issues, or deprecating issues the package can be unpublished from the previous package repository. You can also publish to multiple tenants by using an option called publish to Multiple tenants.

It provides access to the product while the product publisher maintains the ownership rights. A product license is an official legal document that outlines the limitations and conditions of use for the product.

This contains

- Activate License
- Request License